

MAYOR COMMENDS GASOLINE SAVERS

Farm Federation Described As Hope Of Rural Canadians

H. H. Hannam Declares Ottawa Took Stairs Away From Canadian Agriculture, Left in the Basement

"Food will win the war and write the peace," H. H. Hannam, Toronto, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, told members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in convention at Quebec city last week-end.

Mr. Hannam was quoting, when he made this statement, Claude Wickard, secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt administration.

"To date Canadian farm people have made a magnificent war contribution and it has been done without profitable returns," Mr. Hannam said. "To produce to their utmost, at or below costs, under great handicaps is a demonstration of loyalty of the first order."

"If criticism of our national war program is rather general amongst farm people, one reason is they are impatient because they have not yet been given a chance for an all-out effort in maximum food production."

"If prices of farm products are being held down by contract selling or war-time controls, while no check is placed on the farmer's rising costs of production, now it is possible for him to pay much more for hired help, or to put more capital into cows, sows, feed or machinery? Without adequate returns for farm operations, it is humanly impossible for dairy farmers particularly, and others as well, to use their present stock and equipment to full advantage. Let alone expand stock and equipment for maximum production."

"Nowadays it is the popular thing to talk about a floor or a ceiling in prices, wages, etc. Our Canadian government has been more modern and more enterprising. They have put in an elevator to take the rewards for industry and labor up—controlled, yes, but moving up and both starting on a higher floor than agriculture."

"For agriculture, which was in the depression basement in the fall of 1939 and had been there for ten years, not only did they not provide an elevator, but they actually took the stairs away. And, as Professor McDougall of Queen's University said in an article in the Canadian Bankers' Journal, it appeared then to farm people as if they were threatened with a permanent subjection to an inferior economic position."

"While it is a worthy objective to try to prevent inflation experiences of the last war, and to try to stabilize prices and wages, a serious mistake has been made in this connection in Canada. It is unwise and futile to attempt to establish a stabilized economy with factors which are out of balance to begin with. Farm (Page 2, Col. 6)

SCORES "BIRDIE"

A Newmarket bowling rink came within one of a "possible" score at an open men's fours tournament at Aurora yesterday.

Vaughan Goring, Herb White, C. F. Willis and Al. While, skip, were the high team with a score of 62 plus 4.

War savings stamps were the prizes at stake.

SCOUTS, CUBS HOLD CAMP AT SIBBALD'S

Thirty-five Newmarket Boy Scouts and Cubs left on Monday afternoon for ten days at camp at Sibbald's Point, Lake Simcoe. Scoutmaster Chas. Dawe of Toronto is the camp director, assisted by Cubmaster Jack Hamilton of Newmarket.

A special "boys' own service" is being held this Sunday at 11 a.m., standard time, at the camp, to which all parents are invited. A rover troop of Scouts from Toronto will conduct the service. Visitors to the camp on Sunday are asked to bring a box lunch. Tea will be provided.

BIG PARADE CONCLUDES TWO MONTHS' TRAINING

Soldiers from the local military camp, 1,160 strong, paraded through the town last Sunday morning, led by Col. R. B. Harkness, D.S.O.

The military pipe band, trainees, active service members of the Royal Engineers, Queen's Own, 48th Highlanders, Army Service Corps, Ontario Tank Corps and Signals Corps, training here also, were met by the Newmarket Citizens' band and Col. W. W. Johnston, D.S.O., M.C., took the salute in front of the King George hotel.

The parade marked the end of two months' basic training for the group.

Following the parade a program of band music by the Camp Borden tank corps band followed at the military grounds.

If additional games are required to decide the winner Mount Albert will play at Keswick on Sept. 2 and Keswick will play at Mount Albert on Sept. 4.

An elderly lady, afraid of passing her destination, poked the street car conductor with her umbrella. "Is that the First National Bank?" she asked. "No, mum," replied the conductor, "them's my ribs."

RECEIVES WINGS

The first boy to leave the Newmarket training center after it was opened last fall to join the active service forces, Victor LeGard, of Barrie, has now received his "wings." Sgt. Pilot LeGard graduated at Summerside, P.E.I., recently.

BIGGEST CROWD IN YEARS ENJOYS FETE

Youngsters' Parade Gets Carnival Off Right

The largest crowd in years turned out for the Lions club carnival at the Lions park last night and the booths did a land-office business till midnight, when the draw was made for the grand array of prizes. The park was a milling mass of humanity from the time the kiddies' parade arrived, accompanied by the Citizens' and R.S.A. bands.

An aerial bomb startled the residents sharp at 7:30 to announce the start of the parade and a second marked the opening of the carnival. This was followed by the bursting of two coupon rockets, releasing slips of paper good for (Page 4, Col. 6)

CAMP OUSTS TOWNERS FROM WORLD SERIES

OFFICE SPECIALTY AND DAVIS LEATHER STILL CONTEND

The hardball fans have been treated to plenty of action in the last week, which saw the Town squad lose two straight to the M. T. C. to pass out of the hunt for the hardball championship.

The week also saw the bitter rivals of former baseball days, the Office Specialty and Davis Leather, make two vain attempts to get the deciding game of their series on the record books, but on both occasions proceedings had to be halted before a full seven innings had been chalked up. Saturday afternoon's contest was halted at the fifth because of rain and Tuesday evening's fray at the end of the sixth owing to darkness.

To get back to the first game of the Town-Camp series, the M. T. C. lads trotted out quite a few new faces against the Towners last Thursday evening. Mozensky, a southpaw, took the mound for the soldier boys and his slants had the Town gang buffaloed from the outset.

The Towners were unable to get across a run and could only gather in five scattered hits. Druey, Neufeld, VanZant, G. Haskett and Baker accounted for these.

The Army meanwhile jumped on the combined offerings of Charlie VanZant and Baker for 11 runs. Bates, Hraynackh, Menzies, Mozensky and Niles did most of the damage, each accounting for several good hits. Menzies and Niles each hit out for a home run.

The Town on this occasion were three men short and had to draft a player from the Camp. Grimmer, one from the Specialty, Neufeld, and one from the Davis Leather, G. Haskett. However, the reinforcements failed to hold the soldiers, who marched to an 11-0 victory.

Last Rally Fails

The second game of the Town-M. T. C. series went to bat on Monday evening. This was a pitchers' battle all the way, with Mozensky, the Camp's southpaw sensation, outlasting Mickey Smith on the firing line for the Towners.

The best the Town aggregation could roll up against the Camp was two hits for two runs. The soldiers meanwhile collected five hits, which brought in four runs. The Camp's first two runs came in the third, Hraynackh walking, and consecutive hits by Jackson and Mozensky bringing in two counters. The soldiers' other two came over in the fifth, Mackie reaching first on an error and Bates' long home run bringing both men home.

Herbie Cain's reformed Town squad put up a gallant fight in their last up at the plate that almost got them back into the hunt, two walks and two errors chalked up to the M. T. C. men bringing in two runs, but the soldiers finally clicked for the third out and assured themselves of a place in the finals against Davis-Socially feud.

It was a tough position for the Town players to have to finish their turn at bat in the semi-darkness and it appeared that this game should have been called in the sixth, as sooner or later carrying on the games to this point is going to lead to injuries to some players, and it is not entirely fair to the team facing elimination to be left in this spot. Better luck next time, Towners.

NEWMARKET MEN HOLD OPEN BOWLING HONORS

Home teams took the major honors in the open doubles tournament at Newmarket bowling greens on Monday evening. S. R. James and Bill Peters were high for three wins with a score of 42. Fred Hewson and Herb Cain were second for three wins with a score of 37. F. L. Button and C. Armstrong of Stouffville were third for three wins with a score of 30.

C. F. Willis and Horace Cumber were high for two wins with 36 plus 5, and Walwyn and partner of Richmond Hill were high for one win with 31 plus 8.

Archbishop Pays Glowing Tribute To Sir William As Benefactor Of Catholic People Of Ontario

"A word of thanks to Sir William Mulock, the mayor of Newmarket and the heads of the military camp for being with us this evening," said His Grace Most Rev. James Charles McGuigan, D.D., archbishop of Toronto, at St. John's R.C. church on Sunday evening.

The occasion was the welcoming to Newmarket of members of the Sisters of Providence, who will staff St. John's separate school. After crediting the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. D. Muckle, with this accomplishment, Archbishop McGuigan paid a splendid tribute to Sir William Mulock, Newmarket's best known "old boy."

"You don't know what a help Sir William Mulock has been to the Catholic people of Ontario," said the archbishop. "He has helped to give us a place in the civic life of Ontario that we might not otherwise have enjoyed."

"Keep him with us for long and in the end give him the crown of eternal life that God has promised to his good and faithful servants."

RESPECTED CITIZEN DIES AFTER STROKE

Funeral services will take place at St. Paul's Anglican church on Friday afternoon for William Morris, who died on Tuesday in his 69th year.

Mr. Morris suffered a stroke last Wednesday night. He had been working daily for the previous six weeks prior to this attack.

A fine citizen, of a hard-working and retiring character, Mr. Morris had lived in Newmarket for 34 years. He was an unfailing attendant at St. Paul's Anglican church.

Born in Holland Landing, he was married to Lillian Rowland of Whitechurch township 40 years ago in Trinity Anglican church, Aurora. Mrs. Morris and three children survive: Mrs. Fred Bell (Marjorie), Oshawa, Howard, Toronto, and Mrs. Kenneth Mount (Lottie), Newmarket. There is also one sister, Mrs. Nelson Rowland, Penetanguishene.

Mr. Morris's three principal employments were with the Metropolitan railway, the C.N.R., and the Office Specialty Mfg. Co. Rev. A. J. Patstone will conduct the service. Pallbearers will be Nelson Shanks, E. V. Phillips, George Thompson, Jack Marron, Edw. Owens and Fred Hoare.

Pupils intending to register for upper school subjects are particularly requested to see Mr. Bastedo on one of the above dates so that courses may be arranged and time-table difficulties straightened out before school opens. School will open on the legal date, Sept. 2.

THREE SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE OPEN CONVENT

ARCHBISHOP CONDUCTS BENEDICTION AT ST. JOHN'S

MANY CLERGY ASSIST

Four Sisters of Providence from their mother house in Kingston were tendered a welcoming reception by His Grace Most Rev. James C. McGuigan, D.D., on behalf of the pastor and people of St. John Chrysostom parish, on Sunday evening.

In his address of welcome His Grace congratulated Rev. Dr. Muckle for getting the sisters into the parish and assured the people that their presence would bring blessings upon the children and into their homes. "They come as angels from heaven," he said, "to instill a better understanding and greater love for our holy faith, especially among our little ones, to speak words of kindness and to perform deeds of love."

The sisters are establishing a convent here and will have charge of St. John's school. Sister Mary Carmel Teresa, the superior, will have charge of the music, Sister Mary Emilda is principal of the school, Sister Mary Clarissa will teach the junior children and Sister Mary Elaine will have charge of the convent. Rev. Mother Mary Victoria came with the sisters from Kingston to help them get established.

Assisting His Grace the archbishop at solemn benediction were Very Rev. Dr. H. Carr, C. S. B., superior-general of the Basilian Fathers, Very Rev. T. P. McLaughlin, C. S. B., president of St. Michael's College, and Rev. Melville Bolan, pastor at Bradford. Among others present were Rt. Rev. J. V. Harris, D.D., chancellor, Major Rev. John O'Gorman, senior Catholic chaplain M. D. No. 2, Rev. Frank McGuey of King, Rev. T. A. MacDonald, C. S. B., bursar of St. Michael's College, Sir William Mulock, Dr. L. W. Cox, Protestant chaplain at the camp.

Rev. Dr. Muckle briefly expressed his thanks to His Grace the archbishop for being present. He also thanked Rev. Brother Alexius and the lay catechists for their help in the past. The Basilian Fathers, he said, deserved much credit for they had made it possible to have two masses at Newmarket each Sunday during the past six years.

After the ceremonies at the church refreshments were served by the ladies of the parish on the convent grounds.

Newmarket Can Save Over 10,000 Gallons Gasoline Per Month

Mayor Suggests Ways In Which Gasoline Can Be Saved, Commends Citizens For Full Co-operation

"This time we are all in the front line."

"I am sure that the citizens of Newmarket are co-operating 100 percent in the saving of gasoline and oil," Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales declared this week.

"As your mayor let me remind you to keep this continually in mind and economize each day in some way in your gas consumption. Consider your car a great privilege and luxury in these strenuous times, which you may retain without drastic restrictions, or possible complete impounding, by denying yourself freedom of travel."

"I offer these suggestions: (1) Plan your travel for each day; (2) Do not stand with running motor; (3) Start slowly and drive slowly; (4) Deny yourself part of your unnecessary travel; (5) Yes, walk a little."

"If these suggestions are carried out, 30 percent of our usual consumption will be saved—which would amount to a saving of over 10,000 gallons monthly in Newmarket in the summer months."

Says Average "Jerry" As Bad As Hitler Himself

WILFRED PIPHER, CONVALL-ESCIING, HOPES FOR NAVY TRANSFER

From a Canadian hospital in England Pte. Wilfred Pipher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pipher, Newmarket, comes good news that he is convalescing and will soon be about again.

"When I get out of here I am going to try and transfer to the Canadian navy," he writes. "Wish me luck. If I make it I will send you a telegram."

"Mom, here's something that will make you hate the German people all the more. This is true, for the fellow that told this story was an English prisoner in Germany and he is in the same ward here in the hospital, and I heard him tell his story to the paper reporters, and here it is in the paper and I am sending the paper to you for you to read for yourself."

The enclosed article, by David Walker, from the tabloid Daily Mirror of July 18, 1941, told of many atrocities which the writer said he had seen in the conquered countries of Europe.

The article sets out to show that the opinion, "Of course, Jerry himself is a good chap, it's Hitler we're after," is "bunkum."

After citing other cruelties, the writer says: "I was in Yugoslavia when the Stukas had a holiday. There was no defence, and they came screaming down to 300 feet to machine-gun those heroic Serbian civilians, who—

FOURTH COLLEGE BOY LOST ON SERVICE

Pickering College received word this week of the loss of a fourth "old boy" on active service. Pilot Officer George H. Fleming of Owen Sound was reported missing on active service in Britain.

Pilot Officer Fleming was an outstanding student in the business administration department from 1935 to 1937. He was a keen athlete and played with a front-rank Owen Sound baseball team that went to the provincial play-downs a couple of years ago.

One other Pickering old boy was reported missing overseas and is now presumed killed. Another was lost in a training accident in Canada, and a fourth was lost in the Mediterranean.

unlike the French—refused to leave their cities or villages and clutter up the roads.

"Not Hitler, but the average German airman, came down in those ferocious screaming dives to murder the old men and women of Serbia."

The article concludes with: "It is Jerry himself who is starving and torturing the gagged millions of occupied Europe—Jerry himself whom we must wipe off the face of the map."

Newmarket Athletes Give Helping Hand To Cause

N.H.L. STARS GO DOWN TO DEFEAT AT OSHAWA

Three Newmarket boys of international renown on the ice played softball in a Red Cross benefit game at Oshawa last evening. They were "Dit" Clapper, born in Newmarket, Larry Molyneux and Herb Cain, who return to Newmarket every summer to get new inspiration for the winter season.

Happy Day's Toronto Leafs trimmed Doug Laurie's N.H.L. All-Stars 13-2 in a game before 1,600 fans. It wasn't the fault of the three Newmarket boys that they lost, but the burling of the opposing pitcher, Harry Hunkin, "reputed to have signed a special contract with Maple Leafs' Hogg's Hollow farm club earlier in the afternoon."

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holmes of Stratford, formerly of Newmarket, were noted among the spectators.

RED CROSS UNIT SENDS QUOTA TO HEADQUARTERS

The Red Cross quota of the following garments was recently shipped to headquarters: 30 bed jackets, five girls' units, (25 garments); 15 boys' units, (75 garments); 11 pairs men's pajamas.

GOV'T. NEEDS ALUMINUM, SCOUTS WILL COLLECT IT

Because of a serious temporary shortage of aluminum scrap an urgent appeal for aluminum of all kinds is being made by the department of national war services.

Because of the urgent need householders are requested to donate all worn out aluminum utensils. They are asked to scrape up every available piece and have it ready for collection on Sept. 5 and 6. One piece from each house in the town would make a substantial contribution to the cause.

The collection in Newmarket will be conducted by the Boy Scouts and the entire proceeds turned over to the Red Cross.

LIONS CARNIVAL HELD AT RICHMOND HILL

Some of the Newmarket Lions assisted the Richmond Hill Lions at their big annual carnival and street dance held at Richmond Hill on Wednesday evening of last week.

"PERMANENT SYSTEM OF GENERAL SECURITY"

From President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill comes the declaration of Allied war aims that the world has been waiting for. No longer does Mr. Churchill insist that "our war aim is to survive." Mr. Roosevelt took the initiative in arranging the dramatic Atlantic three-day meeting, and we may assume that he took the initiative in urging a statement of war aims that would enlist the support of fair-minded people under whatever flag they may live, fight or suffer.

With this declaration of lofty purposes, the two great democratic leaders struck a resounding blow for victory. As the hard-headed J. V. McCreary says in the Toronto Globe and Mail, "The present declaration is calculated to help win this war." Of President Woodrow Wilson's "Fourteen Points" Mr. McCreary says: "The germs of death were not so much in the Fourteen Points as in the way they were distorted. In any event, nobody doubts that they helped win the Great War."

From Wells' Outline of History we get this summary of the Fourteen Points: "This document demanded open agreements between nations and an end to secret diplomacy, free navigation of the high seas, free commerce, disarmament, and a number of political readjustments upon the lines of national independence. Finally in the Fourteenth Point it required 'a general association of nations' to guarantee the peace of the world."

The Roosevelt-Churchill eight points are:

1. Britain and the United States seek no territorial or other aggrandizement.
2. No territorial changes that do not accord with the "freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned."
3. Respect for the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government and restoration of "sovereign rights and self-government" to those "forcibly deprived of them."
4. They will endeavor, "with due respect for their existing obligations to further the enjoyment by all states, great or small, victor or vanquished, of access, on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their prosperity."
5. Full collaboration among nations in the economic field aimed at improved labor standards, economic advancement and social security.
6. "After the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny, they hope to see established a peace which will afford to all nations the means of dwelling in safety within their own boundaries and which will afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want."
7. Freedom of the seas for all nations.
8. Abandonment of the use of force, and disarmament of nations "which threaten, or may threaten, aggression outside of their frontiers" pending establishment of "a wider and permanent system of general security."

It would seem that the Roosevelt-Churchill aims are much the same as Wilson's, except for a little more emphasis on the economic welfare of the individual, reflecting the change from political to economic thinking which came with the communist revolution and the great depression.

Although they have covered perhaps a little more ground, Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill have not opened themselves to the criticism that Premier Clemenceau made of Wilson. Wells says: "Another flash of the 'Tiger's' wit, it may be noted, was that President Wilson with his fourteen points was 'worse' than God Almighty. 'Le bon Dieu' had only ten."

Because Wilson's "general association of nations to guarantee the peace of the world" failed, the world will not so unreservedly place its hopes in this new promise of "a wider and permanent system of general security."

Nevertheless, the experience with the first child, that turned out badly, will prove valuable with the second.

LORD BEAVERBROOK'S AMAZING STATEMENT

Back in the days when the British and French were waiting for the Germans to attack the Maginot line people said that it was a "phony" war. With all the slaughter and suffering of the intervening year behind us there is no more use of the word "phony" nor would anyone say that it is a "funny" war.

In some ways, however, this war is queerly different from its predecessors. One difference is in the lack of general agreement as to whether great numbers of troops are or will be necessary or whether these men are better employed in factories far from the battle-lines producing planes, bombs, tanks, and guns for a comparatively few fighters.

Some time ago in these columns we referred to the opinion expressed by General Wavell that great masses of American troops would be required to bring the war to an end. We cited the opinion of other authorities to the effect that General Wavell was mistaken. Since then there has been the Russian campaign involving millions of men on both sides, and one would expect opinion to swing toward the big army viewpoint. Nevertheless, Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, in Washington last week, is reported to have given "assurances that Great Britain will not need American manpower to win the war with the Axis powers, if she can have the fullest possible material aid and moral support from the United States."

Does Britain need more men from this continent or not? How can she need Canadians but not need Americans? By what authority does Lord Beaverbrook, in civilization's struggle, release American men from sacrifice while Britain still wants Canadians, while the Canadian government announces the formation of another division for overseas service, and represents the need for men as urgent?

Does the Canadian government share in the forming of British war policy? And if so, how can the Canadian government appeal to Canadian youth to offer their lives, and to Canadian wives and parents to part with their young men, and at the same time approve Lord Beaverbrook's statement to the American people that young Americans are not needed?

Is Lord Beaverbrook right, in the opinion of the British government? Is Lord Beaverbrook right in the opinion of the British high command, and in the light of information possessed by the Canadian government?

Is there, after all, no need in Europe for soldiers from this continent and is our government either just mistaken or pandering to the militaristic tendencies of those who do not fight themselves but gladly send others into battle?

WHAT OTHERS THINK

THAT VICIOUS SPIRAL

(Fort Erie Times-Review)

Next to the battle on the eastern front, about the most frequently mentioned matter in press despatches during the past week or two has been "inflation"—our old friend of such dubious definition. Its appalling result, if one were to believe some of the self-nominated experts, would be second only to losing the war.

From the many ambiguous, and often contradictory, statements which have been made, the current economic philosophy on the subject seems to be that unless wages are held down to somewhere near their present levels, the great mass of the people will find themselves in possession of too much money in relation to the available supplies of consumer goods. Then, because there will not be enough goods to go around, people will virtually start bidding against one another for what is to be had until prices rise. This state of affairs, it is foretold, will prompt reach heights that are beyond all but the rich workers to agitate successfully for still more wages in order to be able to buy the things they want. Workers having then more money than ever with which to outbid one another, will again cause prices to go sky-rocketing—and so ad nauseam. Altogether a most terrifying prophetic theory—until its validity is closely examined.

To begin with, either a scarcity—or, in some cases, an absolute lack—of many consumer articles already exists. Aluminum kitchenware, for example, is almost unobtainable. So, to the average housewife, it matters not at all what the price is when there isn't any. Within a short while stockings, neckties and other articles of dress made from silk will be things of the past. But, meanwhile, there are reports of women flocking to hosiery counters to buy all they can of the remaining stocks of sheer silk stockings. Also there are statements that this rush to buy against a forthcoming famine resulted in some stores charging as much as $5 for a single pair of high-quality hose.

Some will call that profiteering; but our whole economic structure—and human nature itself—will have to be changed before sellers charge less for their wares than willing buyers are anxious to pay. Others will point to it as an example of the effect of inflation. But would the final, net result be any different if incomes generally were so low that silk stockings could not be sold for more than 50 cents a pair? There still would be no more available—there are just so many pairs in stocks on hand—so only a definitely limited number of people will be able to have them, and the vast majority of women will have to do without them almost immediately. Putting a rigid curb on wages will not change that situation one iota.

As has been said, some consumer articles—and there will be many more—are already either scarce or unobtainable. But the prodigious demands of war, not high wages, have caused that condition. Lower wages will not rectify it. So, unless it is determined by price, how is the supply of those articles, the production of which is restricted, to be apportioned among the people?

Of course, the available quantities of most articles of everyday use and consumption are affected little or not at all by the exigencies of war. Canada's potential ability to produce apples, potatoes, eggs, flour—in fact, most articles of food—is greatly in excess of any probable requirements. The same may be said of most of the commodities bought by the average wage-earner and his family. If wages go up, more workers will be able to buy, in season, certain fresh fruits and vegetables which, hitherto, they have had to regard as luxuries beyond their reach, save on festive occasions. Prices may rise somewhat in consequence, but that will stimulate farmers to greater production—at least it always has. And have not low agricultural prices been one of Canada's economic headaches for more than a decade?

Coming from many of the sources they do, these warnings against the evils of the "vicious spiral of inflation" would ring more of sincerity if they were not couched in terms of such intense solicitude for the workers' welfare and well-being. There is something incongruous about the dire prediction of a big industrialist to the effect that raising his employees' wages would, in the long run, cause them to be subjected to great hardship. It smacks too much of the manufacturer who urges a higher import duty on his product on the grounds that it will protect his workmen against the competition of low-paid foreign labor.

TWO LADIES MEET A BLUE YOUNG MAN

By RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"Why, there's a flock of Blue-birds!" exclaimed Mrs. Woody Woodpecker to her cousin, Mrs. Flicker. "I haven't seen any for a long time, and there must be 20 or more of them there in those trees on the edge of the field. Let's go over and talk to them."

The Woodpecker and the Flicker flew towards the flock of birds and greeted them.

"Where are you folks heading for?" inquired the Flicker in a loud voice. "It's quite a time since we have seen any Blue-birds at all, and now we meet a whole lot of you at once."

"Oh, we're going south, but don't ask me where," one bird, obviously a young fellow, replied. "We spent the summer farther north and now we're gradually working our way south, but very slowly, you understand. We won't really leave Ontario for some weeks yet. It's nice just to drift lazily like this."

"Most of you seem to be young birds," said Mrs. Woody. "You're not very blue yet. Have you any older folks with you?"

"Oh, yes, three or four, but most of us were born last spring," answered the young Bluebird. "The older, experienced birds keep us going in the right away, you know, although I'm sure we young ones could get along by ourselves. We're quite grown up, you can see."

"You youngsters are never as wise and cautious as the older birds, no matter what you say," said Mrs. Flicker firmly. "I'm always reminding my young family to watch out for danger."

"We lost one of the young members of our party two days ago," the young Bluebird admitted reluctantly. "The leaders, that is the older ones, said that he wasn't careful enough and lingered too far behind the others, but I think it was just bad luck."

"Was it a Hawk?" asked Mrs. Woody briefly. "Yes," the Bluebird told her. "I don't like to think about it, but, of course, such a thing wouldn't happen to me. Anyway, I won't be lingering behind the others after this, like he was when it happened."

"Your friends seem to be acting a bit nervous right now, as if something were bothering them," the Downy Woodpecker observed. She started to look around to see if there was any apparent cause for alarm.

"Oh, I see what it is," she said, as she looked over toward a low-lying field off to the right.

"It's another Hawk. It's not very close or not coming this way, but it makes the birds uneasy."

"It looks like a Marsh Hawk, so it's probably not interested in any small birds just now," said Mrs. Flicker, calmly. "Still, the sight of any Hawk is worrisome to a small bird. I quite understand their feelings."

"Yes, you never know with Hawks," agreed Mrs. Woody. "That Marsh Hawk there is probably hunting for mice, but it might just take a notion for a taste of young Bluebird instead."

"Why pick on me?" asked their young Bluebird companion nervously. "My friends seem to have decided to move a little farther away from this vicinity. I see, so I must go with them," he said quickly, as he saw the birds start to take wing and fly off in a southeasterly direction. "Good-bye."

"He seemed like a nice lad," Mrs. Flicker said to her friend. "You shouldn't have scared him like that about the Hawk. He looked quite frightened as he was leaving."

"Nonsense, it was the best thing I could have done," Mrs. Woodpecker disagreed. "It's those devil-may-care young things that get caught by the birds of prey. They don't take the things their elders tell them half seriously enough. And it is so hard for a bird to learn by experience, because when they experience the dangers of Hawks, so often they don't live to profit by it."

"That's true," Mrs. Flicker replied. "Here's Handsome the Blue Jay. I suppose his noisy season will be starting again soon. When I think of autumn one of the things that I associate with it is the screaming of Handsome and his friends."

"Hi, folks," the big Blue Jay called as he alighted beside the other two birds. "How are things in Newmarket? I've been wandering for the last few weeks, but I thought I'd come back for a visit."

"Have you been keeping out of mischief since we saw you last?" asked the Flicker severely. "Why certainly!" replied the Jay indignantly. "I just finished having an argument with one of those saucy Black Squirrels over a nut, but you wouldn't call that mischief."

"We've been chatting with a young Bluebird just now," Mrs. Woody told him. "I can't think of any really interesting news, but come on over to the woods and see who's there."

The three birds flew swiftly across the fields, the Blue Jay screaming as he flew.

The Common Round

BEGINNINGS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

In these days of stress and strain, when everything is more or less abnormal; when weapons of war are forged which can destroy in a few hours what it took old time weapons weeks to accomplish; when civilians can stand more of terror, horror, anxiety and sorrow than anyone believed possible and yet rise again with morale not only unaffected, but strengthened, there is one thing that strikes me as being as strange in its way as many others.

And it isn't the super weapons of war, the super stamina of the British people, not the super blitz of the Nazis nor the super war with Russia—its the leaders.

In the United States civil war, when freedom for ALL men was the bone of contention, the man of the hour was a man who came from a humble home—he was of the people. He had no advantages of background save a splendid mother—which of course is a marvellous asset—but of money, of prestige, of historic background and education in state craft, he was absolutely devoid.

In the French revolution—that mass rising against tyranny, the leaders came from the ranks of the common people, and in the Russian fight for freedom, the leaders rose from the ranks.

In this war, where, as never before, freedom is fighting for its very existence, there is a reversal of leadership. At the head of the greatest bulwarks of freedom are two men who have grown up against a background of service to the state—their ancestors, fighters on land and sea, diplomats, cultured and wealthy. They have not had to struggle against sometimes overwhelming odds to eke out a bare existence, they have not had to strive for any of the benefits freedom confers on her sons for these benefits were their birthright.

But unlike many who take all freedom's gifts for granted, they were far-seeing. Looking ahead they saw that what they enjoyed was the right of only those who were willing to sacrifice and if need be to die for its maintenance.

So, when the need arose, they could speak for their countrymen—be voice for the intricately, and oppose against the forces of evil the right of all men to worship God where they find Him; to build a home free from espionage and to speak their minds within the boundary of right thinking. And so the cause of the great mass of the people is championed by men not of it but with all their force of character and wealth of intellect for it. What do we find on the other side? The men who are and have been seeking to slay democracy are of the people. They are from humble homes—Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin—all from the workers—but unlike Abraham Lincoln, unlike Bevan, unlike many, who from small beginnings rose to power, they have sought only to oppose the worker, regiment the children and youth, disrupt the home and abolish religion.

These men, having attained power, have shut their eyes to the needs of those who companioned their youth; none knew better than they the needs of the humble folk—the need of peace to develop their trade and improve working conditions; the need for education to lift them above the rut into which centuries of illiteracy had thrown them; to improve and elevate the home life and give individually a chance to develop—to give Christianity a free hand to work its heaven and to incite as part of every child's education, tolerance of every race and creed.

On the other hand, when the triumvirate of men came to power, instead of a government of, for and by the people, they instituted a dictatorship where only one voice, with a few echoes, ruled with absolute and ruthless power, and crushed the beginnings of liberty and equality which before their rise had been striking infant shocks into mother earth.

So it's a strange commentary on the time we live in, that the leaders FROM the people are opposing every chance that these peoples have to live normal, God-fearing lives and maintaining the damning doctrine—which in the end spells a nation's doom—that the state is everything, and individuals just cogs in its wheels.

Our leaders are FOR the people—for everything sane and decent; for men's right to help in forming state and local policies; for the right to the sanctity of the home and the rearing of their children, and for the right to live at peace. The struggle between good and evil began in the garden of Eden, and will end only when life ceases on this planet.

Evil has sometimes SEEMED to triumph—it has NEVER won. So with our leaders, men of vision, God-fearing and indomitable, we can go forward, knowing that though the end may be long delayed there can only be ONE outcome—good must prevail.

Farm Federation Described As Hope Of Rural Canadians

prices and farm income are so far out of line with returns of labor and industry that stabilization becomes a sham.

"Two factors, however, have come to the farmer's rescue. Government policy in the United States recently gave their farmers a guarantee of 85 percent parity (with the base period 1909-14, which was, if anything more favorable to the farmer than 1926-29). It moved their prices up very considerably and in Canada we were compelled to raise our prices in order to prevent our products (hogs particularly) from going across the line when they were so urgently needed to fulfill our commitments to Britain.

"The other factor is: National authorities are learning that remunerative returns to agriculture, as to labor and industry, is the way to get the job done. Professor McDougall issued a warning in the above mentioned article when he said: 'In time of war Canadian production is doubly valuable to Great Britain because it involves the shortest sea haul. This is one thing on which we must not fall down and we stand in danger of that very thing unless we allow higher returns to the farm population.'

"The farm labor situation is acute. The need for men in the forces and preferred conditions provided for labor in industry have drawn farmers' sons and farm labor away from the farm. While our farmers will appreciate every hour of contributed labor and it will be of some help, the farm labor situation cannot be solved on the basis of a casual labor supply. The only satisfactory answer to the farm labor situation is to establish a proper relation between farm prices on the one hand and industrial prices and labor costs on the other.

"Let us glance at figures on the farmers' income. During the 1915-19 world war period of 1915-19 farmers (then 30 percent of total workers) received one-third of the national income. In the 1926-29 period (which has been accepted as a base period for wage rates) farmers (then 34 percent of the total) received one-sixth of the national income. And in the decade 1930 to 1940 the farmers' share of the national income had dwindled to one-tenth.

"Take the cash income per farm. In the 1926-29 period it averaged $791 per farm in Canada. For the 11 years 1930 to 1940 inclusive it averaged only $329—down to less than half the former figure. For the 728,000 farms in the dominion this means a drop in total purchasing power of $335,000,000 per year.

"This picture is given in support of my contention that the plight of our basic food producing industry is the major domestic problem facing Canadians today. It is second only to that of the prosecution of the war—and at the same time it is a vital part of the war program as well.

"From a news standpoint it is now in the headlines—thanks to the good work and public spiritedness of many friends of the farmers. And a generous share of that goes, I am happy to say, to you men of the Canadian weeklies. I had known that the weekly press was giving agriculture every support, but since we began to secure clippings, I have been amazed at the extent of it. It prompts me to suggest that possibly the farmer's story is, from a news standpoint alone, second only to that of the war.

"As farmers we are not begging for hand-outs. We are not asking others to assume our responsibilities. We believe self-help is the best kind of help. We believe that self-reliance is still one of the great virtues. The lack of equal opportunity for agriculture, our belief in self-help, and our faith in constructive action by democratic processes, are the three ideas which together inspired the origin of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in 1935.

"The organization meeting was held in Toronto in November of that year. It brought together some 75 farm leaders from all parts of Canada. They were unanimous in their decision to attempt to build an organization which would include all provinces and all branches of agriculture, and be in a position to speak with one voice for their industry.

"In the first five years we have been even more successful than any of us dreamed at that time we might be. Today the Canadian Federation of Agriculture includes the great majority of all farm organizations in Canada with an affiliated membership of 350,000. As its name implies, it is a federation of existing farm and co-operative organizations. Each province has its own federation, with three directors on the national board. The three maritime provinces function as one provincial unit. In Ontario we have carried the Federation idea into the formation of county units as well. Some 22 of these have been officially organized and others are under way.

"On July 2 last, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture opened a national office in the Booth building, Ottawa, with Walter E. Haskins, formerly of British Columbia, installed as secretary-treasurer.

"The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has been urging the adoption of a national agricultural policy—one which will:

"Firstly, recognize the fundamental nature of food and land and farm people, and the importance of agriculture in our national economy;

"Secondly, establish a fair balance between agriculture, labor and industry;

"Thirdly, provide a systematic marketing program designed to feed our markets both at home and abroad in an orderly and efficient manner;

"Fourthly, develop a production program, shaped according to the needs of the marketing program, and designed to give our farmers guidance which will enable them to plan their farm program at least two years in advance; and

"Fifthly, recognize the principle of a two-price policy. This means that prices of farm commodities in the domestic market must bear a proper relationship to cost of production and cost of living in Canada, even though it may be necessary for our exportable farm products to go to the world market at a lower price."

POLICE COURT

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY,
BOTH MEN OVERSEAS

The longest police court session in Newmarket this year was held Tuesday, when 84 cases were heard by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe.

Pleading guilty to driving a car while his license was suspended, David Williams, Aurora, was sent to jail for 30 days.

"Has he been driving before?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"Yes, to my knowledge he has been driving, but I never had an opportunity to catch him," was the reply of Prov. Con. Alex. Ferguson.

In answer to queries of defence counsel, Lorne Lee, the officer stated that Mr. Williams had been working in a garage. "I think he has had too much access to cars," he said.

The crown advised his worship that Mr. Williams had been convicted on previous occasions of reckless driving and driving while his license was suspended.

"This boy is just stupid," stated the defence. "This time he had applied to enter the army and I would ask that your worship would be lenient."

"The last time he applied for the air force, this time he is applying for the army," commented his worship. "He is just flouting the law."

"You go to jail for 30 days, Williams," stated the magistrate. "I intended increasing the time you received last time you were convicted but in view of your intentions I am giving you the same sentence. You can enter the army when you get out."

"I was stuck with it," stated

Ernest Graham, Aurora, referring to three cases of ale found in his garage. The defendant pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $25 and costs of $12.25 or 30 days in jail.

"I was searching the premises of Mr. Broome who was convicted of selling liquor last week," testified Chief Constable Fisher Dunham. "We went to the door. We had been informed that Mr. Broome kept liquor in places other than in his place. We found three cases of ale in Graham's garage."

"I got the beer for Mr. Broome," he said that he would take it. He didn't take it from my garage. I was stuck with it."

"You had better leave liquor alone," stated Magistrate Woodliffe.

Because they caught fish in excess of the number allowed by law, James Lackey and William Archer, both of Toronto, were each fined $10 and costs.

Game Warden Ernest Prosser testified that he had been patrolling Lake Simcoe on Aug. 3, when he came upon the defendants near Snake Island, with 16 small-mouthed black bass which they had caught by angling and placed in baskets in the bottom of their boat. The officer stated that some of the fish were very small. Charges of having undersized fish were withdrawn.

A week's remand was allowed Donald Woods, Sutton, and Ralph Charles, Jackson's Point, each charged with vagrancy in Georgina township. The men were allowed bail of $1,000 each.

Alice Lupu, Toronto, charged with bigamy, was given a week's remand and allowed bail of $500. The accused woman is charged with marrying Christopher Van Leeuwen in Schomberg on June 7, 1941, while being married to Harry Lupu. The first marriage took place in Toronto on June 6, 1938. Both husbands are overseas.

Magistrate Woodliffe heard Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Keswick, in the sum of $50 to keep the peace. She had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault upon Mrs. Della Holstock, a tenant to whom she rented a few rooms. The women had taken the part of their children who were quarrelling with each other.

Charged with exceeding the speed limit at Elmhurst Beach, W. C. Cameron, Toronto, was fined $8 and costs.

Mr. Cameron denied that he had been going 45 miles an hour as charged by Constable Alex. McColl. He disputed the right of the township to pass a by-law lowering the speed limit to as low as 30 miles an hour. He stated that Lake Simcoe summer residents were dissatisfied with the police because of speeding charges laid.

"The actions of these sniping officers are simply terrible," he stated. "I was going 30 miles an hour. I was going at a moderate speed."

"What do the signs say?" asked his worship. "Thirty miles an hour," replied the defendant.

"Yet you could the police officer for carrying out his duty?" asked his worship.

The defendant criticized the police officers for not wearing their uniform coats while on duty. "Why anyone could wear a police shirt," he stated.

"Anyone could wear a police uniform also," replied the magistrate. "You are perfectly aware that the speed limit is 30 miles an hour and that at that place you have to go 30 or under and not over."

"You'll have to use a horse and buggy to get up to the cottages," commented the defendant.

Mrs. O. B. Sheppard, Toronto, appeared in behalf of her chauffeur, F. M. Johnson, who was charged with speeding in North Gwillimbury. She pleaded leniency, as she stated that her chauffeur had been driving but three weeks for her and was not familiar with that part of the road. Constable McColl testified the defendant's speed was 42 miles an hour.

Mrs. Sheppard expressed her satisfaction with the police officer. "I don't care whether he has a shirt or coat on," she stated.

Ernest Graham, Aurora, referring to three cases of ale found in his garage. The defendant pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $25 and costs of $12.25 or 30 days in jail.

TWO AWAIT SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF CATTLE

Michael Chapman and John Cryderman, both of Newmarket, were each remanded for sentence for one week, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday. Both are held in custody.

Both men pleaded not guilty to stealing a heifer valued at $25, the property of Frank Bowdway, and four head of cattle, the property of Donald McDonald. His worship granted the request of Charles Evans, counsel for Mr. Cryderman, that the witness be excluded from the courtroom.

"During June and July I kept my cattle in pasture on a farm on the 5th concession of Georgina," testified Donald McDonald, a farmer who lives near Sutton. "I missed four head of cattle. One was a three-year-old and the others yearlings. There were two heifers and two steers, Durham."

The witness stated that he reported the loss of the cattle to Constable William Hill, who found them on a farm near Sharon. He and his hired man, Walter Sedore, identified the animals.

"Was there any way you could identify them?" asked the crown, N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"Yes, before I put the yearlings out to pasture I had their tails cut off short and square," replied the witness.

Walter Sedore, who was called to testify, told the court that he had no difficulty in recognizing the cattle in the pasture near Sharon as Mr. McDonald's.

According to the testimony of Gordon Boyd, Newmarket, a buyer and seller of cattle, the defendants came to his place in Newmarket one evening and asked him to buy some cattle.

"Mr. Cryderman said that Mr. Chapman had some cattle to sell and asked me if I would buy them," testified Mr. Boyd. "I said that I would go up next morning. I went up next morning at 7 o'clock and saw Mr. Chapman. I gave him $105 for four head of cattle. He gave me a cheque for $105 and the balance in cash. I bought the two heifers and two steers from Mr. Boyd for $155 on the 26th of June," stated John Shaluksky, whose farm is a mile from Sharon. "I still have them. I put them in Howard Pegg's pasture near Sharon."

Constable William Hill told his worship that Mr. McDonald had reported the loss of his cattle on the 23rd of July and that he located them at Howard Pegg's pasture. After the cattle had been identified he arrested the defendants and took them to the Newmarket jail.

When called to the stand Mr. Chapman told his worship that he was 25 years of age and lived on a rented farm near Baldwin and that Mr. Cryderman lived with his father on a farm nearby.

"Mr. Cryderman came up the road and asked me if I would sell four head of cattle for him," stated Chapman. He said that he didn't want his father to know and that he would split the money with me. I believed what he said, that he didn't want his father to know. He drove the cattle to my place."

The defendant stated that he went with Mr. Cryderman to see Mr. Boyd and that Mr. Cryderman told him to try and get $120 for the animals when Mr. Boyd came for them the next day and if not, to get what he could. He said that he sold the animals for $105 and cashed the cheque in Sutton. Later he and Cryderman divided the money, he said.

Questioned by the crown about the statement he made while in jail, in which he stated that on June 21 he saw four head of cattle on the 5th concession of Georgina and drove them into his yard, later selling them and dividing the money, he stated that it was incorrect. Mr. Chapman said that he made the statement because "Mr. Cryderman asked me to take the blame, as he has four daughters."

"Did you steal the cattle?" asked the crown. "No, I was not suspicious that they had been stolen until Mr. Hill arrested me," replied Mr. Chapman.

"You thought the cattle belonged to Mr. Cryderman and his father?" "Yes, I did."

"You thought he was giving you 50 percent of the sale price to keep quiet—not to tell his father?" "Yes."

"Didn't you think anything wrong about that?" "No."

Mrs. Pearl Chapman, wife of Michael Chapman, testified that she, her brother and two brothers-in-law were in front of her home when Mr. Cryderman drove the cattle into their yard. She did not know anything about the sale.

Ronald and Brice Chapman, brothers of the defendant, testified that they helped drive the animals into the stable and that they were present when Mr. Cryderman said not to tell his father.

"I went up to Mac Chapman's about the 25th of June to spend the evening," stated John Cryderman. "He wanted to know where he could sell his cattle and I named several dealers. I then said that Mr. Boyd in Newmarket would buy them. He asked me to go with him and he sold the cattle. I don't know anything more about the sale. I never saw the cattle and never drove them into Mr. Chapman's."

The defendant further stated that on the night of his arrest he and Chapman had gone to Sutton where they had beer. They left Sutton at about 11:30 p.m. and he had just gone to bed when Mr. Hill "routed" him out.

Questioned by his counsel, Charles Evans, Bradford, as to the statement he signed in jail, Mr. Cryderman denied that he told Mr. Chapman to take the blame. He said he did not realize what he was signing "I had so many drinks. All I remember is that they told me to sign here, I was so excited and full of beer that I signed."

Asked if there was any division of money, the defendant said: "No, I did borrow about $10 from Mac to pay on a car. I didn't buy the cattle, so I returned the money."

Cross-examined by the crown, Mr. Cryderman admitted having been previously convicted of theft. Constables Stess, Hill and Morton all attested to both defendants' sobriety when the statements were taken.

In summing up his defence, Mr. Evans advised his worship "that the chief aim of the whole crowd of witnesses for Chapman is to put the blame on Cryderman."

"I think that Mr. Chapman acted in a very odd way," stated Mr. Black, counsel for Mr. Chapman. "I think you can consider that here is a man of 27 years (Cryderman) with a criminal record and here is a boy just married. He gets the boy to do things by offering him a sum of money. There is no proof of stealing, there is no receiving."

"One is trying to shift the blame on the other," stated the crown.

"I think it was a prearranged scheme and that the statements they made in jail is correct."

"I can't believe either story," commented his worship. "I don't believe I have heard the whole story. Each is trying to blame the other, as often happens among thieves. Both disposed of the cattle. I feel you both guilty."

In the hearing on the theft of a heifer, George Cransberry, Virginia, testified that Frank Bowdway, Virginia, had put the animal in his (Cransberry's) pasture in May. He said he missed the heifer on June 23. He and Mr. Bowdway later identified the animal on Joseph Harrison's ranch. They recognized it because of the peculiar marking on its face.

"I bought this heifer from Mr. Cryderman," testified David Hillis, Brownhill, a drover. "I was buying some cattle from Mrs. Coomer when Mr. Cryderman came and asked me to buy it." The witness said that he paid the defendant $30 and sold the heifer about a half hour later to Mr. Harrison.

At this point, at the request of Mr. Black, the charge against Mr. Cryderman of stealing the heifer was dismissed.

"I went to Mrs. Coomer's place with Mr. Chapman and saw Mr. Hillis," stated Mr. Cryderman in his defence. "I told the heifer for $20. The heifer belonged to Chapman."

When called to the stand, Mr. Chapman told his worship: "I didn't know a thing about the heifer. Mr. Cryderman wanted to trade it and $50 for my car that

Puzzlers Found Their Way Through Editors' Errors And Red Herrings To Turn In Perfect Scores

The puzzle editors have slightly red faces this week because there were two misprints in the scrambled words in last week's contest. Just when we were beginning to pat ourselves on the back for no slip-ups to date, the worst came to the worst all at once and there were two in one issue. Even two mistakes didn't deter the contestants, however, because mistakes or no mistakes, 16 contestants turned in perfect answers, believe it or not! All the same, we owe an apology to all are puzzlers.

The correct answers were: balance (error here), opposite, exchange, student, leatherette, outgrown, registration, coupe (error here), possession, spaniel. The two "false" words were bajoule and rlvibuxt. Two contestants made the word "bluejay" out of the first of these. Of course, as they pointed out, this word wasn't in the classified columns, but it was smart of them, nevertheless.

Credit for pointing out the misprints in the contest first goes to Miss Lottie Tansey of Sharon, although there were others, too. The five winners, drawn by Miss Nellie Taylor at Chandler's from the correct answers, are: Mrs. Arthur Evans, Newmarket; Miss Lottie Tansey, Sharon; Mrs. Robert Rose, Kettleby; Miss Mary Mills, King. R.R. 3; Mrs.

Alex. Thompson, Newmarket. They will receive double passes for next Tuesday's or next Thursday's show at the Strand and may obtain them any evening at the theatre box office or on the night they attend the show.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST
Five winners of this week's contest will receive double passes for Tuesday, Sept. 2, to see George Brent and Martha Scott in "Dare Not Love" and Jane Withers and Jackie Cooper in "First Beau," or for Thursday, Sept. 4, to see Joan Bennett and Walter Pidgeon in "Man Hunt" and Phil Regan and Tommy Dorsey in "Las Vegas Nights". Contestants must have their answers at The Era office by next Tuesday morning at 9.30, D. S. T. If more than five send in perfect answers the winners will be drawn by a Newmarket merchant.

This week there are ten jumbled words. They represent ten words which appear in the classified columns. In each case, however, the fifth letter of the classified word is missing. Thus if the word were poultry, the scrambled word might be upropt, with the fifth letter which is l, missing. Here are the ten words: legdsrae, yihagh, dooripeln, neonanc, ramon, baslleena, lyailpsee, yucnur, sefr, grand.

WANT-ADS

The rate for Want Ads is 25 cents for 25 words for one insertion; 40 cents for two insertions; 50 cents for three insertions. For over 25 words, each additional word, one insertion, one cent, additional insertions, one-half cent per insertion.

YOUR CO-OPERATION INVITED

DANIEL CAMERON DIES, WAS KEEN SPORTSMAN

The death occurred of one of Aurora's best known citizens, Daniel Cameron, Wellington St., on Monday evening.

In September, 1939, Mr. Cameron suffered a partial stroke while working at Kingston and he had been in poor health since that time, although he had been greatly improved until the last few weeks. He was born at Parryville, Vaughan township, one of a family of nine. His father, the late Angus Cameron, was a pioneer of the district.

Mr. Cameron was in his 62nd year. His first job was with Marsh's saw-mill at King. Later the family moved to Wilcox Lake and about 36 years ago to Aurora, where Mr. Cameron was employed first by Underhill's shoe factory and later by the T. Sisman Shoe Co. He then entered the employment of the late George Brown and the late Fred Browning and became an expert bricklayer and stonemason. He continued

Last week's incident happened among the men of the Queen's York Rangers on the softball diamond which merits a word of praise. There was a pick-up ball game in progress and on one side was a boy wearing glasses. A line drive came, the glasses fell off and were trampled into the ground beyond repair. The loss was a serious one to the lad, but his mates pooled their limited resources and were prepared to buy a new pair. The officers of the regiment, hearing of this and impressed by the spirit of the men decided that this was an instance where battalion funds might justifiably be used. The result is that the lad has a new pair of glasses. That is only a small example of the spirit that embues the boys, Major D. O. Mungovan told the writer.

John Ballon, the Montreal boy who won the junior championship at St. Andrew's college last year and also finished second in his brother in the cross-country run, did himself and the college proud at the junior camp held by the O.A.C. at Lake Couchiching recently. He annexed two events and finished second in a third to win the junior title. The camp is province-wide in its scope.

Queen's Yorks won the unofficial title of Niagara camp in softball after defeating the Toronto Scottish and Southern Alberta regiment by sound scores and then having the Field Ambulance back down from scheduled events. It was probably just as well, as the Yorks were really getting hot. Sergeant Chuck McDonald hurled a no hit, no run game against the Southern Alberta regiment. The Toronto boy had his hooks working to perfection and the westerners were completely baffled. He and Long John Vandenberg were as good as any in camp.

Sylvanus Apps added to his already heavily laden athletic fame by leading the Toronto Scottish track and field team to the camp title. Apps scored in the hop, step and jump, standing and running broad, shot put and baseball throw for a total of 15 points. His unit secured a total of 22 points, together, scoring their only other win in the tug-of-war, where they bested a Queen's Yorks team of Cody, Dewar, Gray and yours truly in the final pull, which went almost six minutes. The Scotties outweighed the more youthful Yorks by over 100 pounds and veteran performers knew all the tricks in the third heat. Previously the Scottish eliminated the 21st battery and the Yorks the 9th.

The Duffs took four running events. Jones, a high school athlete from Paris, took the sprints and McLaughlin from the Hamilton Olympic club took the 40 and mile. The Lunan of the Yorks was the early pacemaker and died out gamely. Lieut. Sykes of the Yorks took third in the 100 yards and a second in the 220 and barely lost the relay race as anchor man. He ran the last 100 yards on pure nerve.

Mickey Smith scored third in the 220 and ran a nice leg in the relay. Ken Brown and Johnny O'Halloran were other athletes who performed gallantly. Brown and O'Halloran both won their legs in the relay. The Duffs topped this event, which was the most thrilling of the day. It did seem a bit unfair to throw in an athletic of the calibre of Apps against other fellows not as well trained or as fit. He badly outclassed the others in every field event.

Final points showed the Scottish with 22 points, the artillery and Duffs tied with 17 points and the Queen's Yorks with a total of 10. The Scottish without Apps had nothing. The artillery had three times as many victories as anyone else, also, considering everything, the meet was satisfactory for all.

The Salvation Army were sponsors of the meet, although the actual management was left to the Yorks with Lieut. D. S. Tickner in charge. A word of praise for the Sally Ann is not amiss. They were one of the redeeming features of Niagara camp. Writing rooms with a countless supply of envelopes and paper, ping-pong games, free movies, magazines, athletic supplies, pressing irons and about everything that made a home away from home and no interference with the boys. Every man at Niagara camp, silently, at least, gave them his blessing.

Some weeks ago we requested a number of persons in the various centres of the Lake Simcoe softball league to give us a list of the best performers in the league. We received replies from practically every centre and from them all we arrived at some pretty definite conclusions concerning the players in the league. The first name that came up was that of Charlie Cunningham, a hum of Newmarket, who himself got an orchid for his fine work from everybody. Don Glover of Sharon, Morley Cook of Pine Orchard, Norman McLeod of Sharon, Percy Mahoney of Keswick and Stan. Lunney of Zephyr, who responded to our request nobly and did an impartial and, we think, thorough job.

A Difference

The five-year-old boy wanted to see the coronation decorations, and he was so thrilled by their brightness and color that he was lost for words for a while. But when he came to a shop with a large photograph in the window, he looked up seriously and asked who it was.

"But, Billy," said his father,
"you go to school and yet you don't know that that is the king?"

"I know," he said thoughtfully,
"but is it the gracious king or the noble king?"

NEUTRALITY

Won't Get You To Heaven

"Neutrality" was the subject of an address given recently by Miss Erma Eulaline Kingdom of Vandorf, at a Young People's church service at Wesley United church, Vandorf.

"Since the beginning of this,
the second world war, we have just to turn on our radios or look in the newspapers to hear or see 'Neutral, neutral, we will remain neutral,' began Miss Kingdom. 'We will not do that because of our neutrality,' or
'Our neutrality forbids you to do that to us.'"

"Just what does neutrality mean?" she asked. "Why is it so important? It means taking no part on either side. It is important because many countries thought and some still think it the best way to keep out of a terrible war. Is it the best?"

"I would like you to consider
'neutrality' in regard to Christian living. It is, we said, taking no part on either side. You know people who live good, respectable lives and yet do not profess belief in Jesus, attend His earthly house or work in His vineyard.
They might say, if asked, that they are neither for Christianity nor against it. In other words they are neutral."

Miss Kingdom quoted a poem about a man who never did any harm, neither did he ever do any good, and when he knocked on heaven's gate he found he could not get in because St. Peter had no record to show he had ever lived or died.

"Yes, my friends, that is the sad part of it," she said. "If we're neutral we're not good enough for heaven. If we're not for God we're against Him.
There really isn't any neutrality in Christian living. We must be all for Christ or he considers us against Him. If we're all for Christ we'll be doers of the word."

"God gives each of us a free choice. Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide. Have you decided? Are you remaining neutral or are you all out for Christ, a doer of his word?"

"There have been numerous men, Paul, Livingstone, Knox, Moody, who have been outstanding as all-out Christians, doers of God's word. Even in this sinking world we find in every community where Christianity has been taught, a group of all-out Christians. How do they differ from other people, you may ask."
Miss Kingdom took the story of Barnabas as an example.

"If we are full of the Holy Ghost we will have faith. Oh!
how much faith in God is needed in the world today. The British have faith that they're going to win this war or else they couldn't carry on. We must have faith in our earthly king, country and form of government but how much more faith should we have in God."

"What can keep America safe from perils without or within her borders? The apostle Paul said to the Ephesians: 'Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and the power of his might.' Physical aids to defence may be required but far more important and essential is it for us first of all to acknowledge God ruler of the universe and have faith in his might and power."

"It is with his armor we must be equipped even as Paul goes on to say: 'Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.'"

"Read the biographies of Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham and Sarah. You will find the fundamental principle of faith. Faith is confidence in the realization of things hoped for, it is a conviction regarding things not yet visible. The pagan world says, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die.' The Christian says, 'Tomorrow we live.'"

OUR FEATHERED FRIENDS

By GOLDEN GLOW

The hot weather for the past month has deprived us of many of our song birds—no doubt they have, like folks, gone north on their summer holidays—all but the cute little sparrows!

I am amazed to see how well the tiny sparrows stand the extremes of weather, both hot and cold!
and they appreciate what you do for them in summer and in winter.

The young family of blackbirds
I told you about earlier as living round our neighborhood are about grown up now and we do not see so much of them and no more do they soften up their crusts in the bird drinking-fountain in my garden. It was so interesting to watch them, even if they were noisy. And one poor chap had only one leg. I have missed him lately, for he stayed round my garden most of the time. Not that he needed our pity—just our sympathy, for he managed beautifully and stood quite evenly, and seemed to balance himself quite all right and could even stand on the edge of a small rectangular cake-tin I have for a bird-bath for the smaller birds. He never did seem to miss meal-time and always got his share.

Then the humming birds have been much more plentiful this summer, or at any rate I've managed to see more. Queer how decidedly uninteresting they are sitting down to what they are with their tiny wings whirling round as they balance themselves to thrust their long slender bills into the heart of a flower for a drop of honey.

The wild canaries, the tiny willow-birds, too, seem to have passed on after a brief, pleasant stay. But the night hawk still makes that queer growly noise as it swoops for a mosquito in the early evening. I never knew what that queer sound was till one summer up at a summer camp in Muskoka the guide took us up one evening to the top of what they called Bald-headed Rock, and the name certainly suited,
for not a tree or shrub or a vestige of green grass could be seen on it anywhere. As we stood there beside the flange staff somebody had erected the night hawks kept swooping down after their supper all around us and finally it dawned on me that the queer noise I never could account for was connected with them. The guide, who was versed in nature lore, told me I was correct and said if I watched I'd see it was the wind through the feathers of their wings as they swooped on the mosquito from above and were enough it was. So the mystery of the queer growly sound was explained and there was no more use me calling it the Griffin as I had up to then. I pretended it was some supernatural being—and I never till then had anybody explain it to me.

If you are near Fairy Lake you'll see all different varieties of water-fowl flying about down there. They nest in the rushes up near Cedar Heights and along the shore of Edgar Dennis' farm.
And up at Lake Simcoe we saw plenty of gulls, each time we have been there, and also at Scugog Lake, especially.

But the tiny sparrows are everywhere, and lately I have noticed more pigeons in our town than ever before. I wonder why they like to sit on the roof, or a high window of a church and coo with their soft voices? Is it that they enjoy the music of a church service? Certainly they can be often seen at Trinity United, or the Anglican church, or the Christian evangelical church, or the others but I can't say so since I haven't actually seen them. They used to congregate round Mr. Frank Robinson's mill before it was burned—no doubt they still haunt

QUEENSVILLE
INSTITUTE ARRANGES
TRIP TO EXHIBITION

The Institute is arranging a bus trip to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto on Friday,
Aug. 29. The bus will leave at 8 a.m., standard time. Anyone wishing to secure a ticket may get one at Burkholder's store.
Institute members will be given the first privilege.

At the last packing day Queensville Red Cross Unit sent the following with the East Gwillimbury Red Cross shipments: 20 pairs of socks, four helmets, two pairs mitts, one turtle-neck heavy sweater with sleeves, one sleeveless sweater, four scarves, five refugee sweaters.

Several of the Queensville Red Cross workers will be sewing for the Red Cross at the exhibition.
Queensville Y. P. U. will hold a weiner roast on Friday night of this week. Everyone is invited.

There have been several real estate changes in this community this month. Many are leaving this community who will be badly missed. The newcomers are heartily welcomed.

Guests of Mrs. L. M. Lewis
last week were Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Perchard of Toronto, Mr.
and Mrs. E. L. Cooper of Chatham, Mrs. Geo. Pegg and Mrs.
Dora Haystead of Aurora, Mr.
and Mrs. Paton of Toronto. Mrs.
Lewis expects to leave shortly to spend the winter in New York City. She will return to New York with her daughter, Miss Luva Lewis, who is a school teacher in that city.

Miss Nelda Clarke of Milliken is visiting her aunt, Mrs. George Pearson, here.

Mrs. Connell Marritt of Toronto is spending this week visiting Mrs. Wm. Henry.
Patty Rae Donnell entertained

who-o-hoo-ooo under my window.
But I am still disappointed I didn't see it properly with the flashlight—such a chance and I bungled it!

Before I end this rambling ac-ticle let me plead with you to start now getting the birds accustomed to a certain place, where they will come later to be fed, by feeding them occasionally, and by winter you will have a wonderful source of enjoyment. Try to arrange it near a window. Make a suet-bell, make a feeding station or a tiny shelter and once you have their confidence they will repay you by coming to cheer you up some stormy day next winter.
You'll love them.

MOUNT ALBERT

W. I. FORGOES BANQUET, GIVES TO WAR FUND

The August meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B. Sinclair on Thursday afternoon, with an attendance of 30 ladies. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Crowle, first vice-president, took the chair. It was decided to dispense with the annual banquet held in March and $10 was voted to buy yarn to knit and $25 for the British war victims fund.

It was the grandmothers' meeting and there were 14 of them present. A prize was given for the shortest grandmother and was won by Mrs. Haystead, a visitor at the meeting. A paper on historical research gave the story of the little place called Franklin, which at one time had a population of 150, and then the coming of the railroad seemed to be its downfall and now it is noted for the thriving cereal business there. Mrs. Burnham gave current events of Institute activities in the west. Mrs. Stiver gave a reading on "Grandmother's House," and a contest on things used by our grandmothers was won by Mrs. Bruce Holting. The story of the first grandmothers' meeting held in Beuchurch Institute was given by Mrs. John Case. Solos and duets by Mrs. Couper, Mrs. Sinclair and a visitor, Mrs. Dunn, were also enjoyed and a social half-hour brought to a close a very nice meeting.

Mitchell, Holt. L. A. C. Jack Willbee of Oshawa spent the weekend at his home here. Mrs. Reg. Willbee was called to Toronto suddenly last Thursday night owing to the serious illness of her father, Mr. Hansford, who is still in a serious condition in the Private Patients' Pavilion of the Toronto General hospital.

Maple Hill

Next Sunday there will be a special speaker at Maple Hill church as Rev. E. A. McAsh is leaving this week for his holidays. He intends spending a few days at Canadian Keswick, North Bay, Manitoulin Island and London, Ont. There was a good attendance at the Dorcas meeting last week. Mrs. Harry Knights gave a very fine, helpful message. The roll-call was answered by a verse of scripture containing the word "longsuffering." Several led in prayer and a nice quilt was made. Mrs. Murdoch and her son, John, of Toronto, visited Mr. Robert Knights' home on Sunday. L.-Cpl. Roy Payne of Orillia visited at the home of his uncle, Mr. Edwin Payne, on Saturday. EASY TO HIDE Mister (hurry to get dressed for a party)—Ouch, I bumped my crazy bone. Missus—Well, just part your hair on the other side and it will never show.

Changing the Subject

When William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, lived in South Africa he once made the acquaintance of a mule-driver who seemed to enjoy marked success in handling his teams. "How do you manage such stubborn creatures?" Booth asked. "Well," replied the man, "when they balk and refuse to go on I just toss a handful of gravel or dirt into their mouths. They spit it out, of course, but they generally go on." "Why do you think it makes them go on?" said the general. "Oh, I don't know," answered the driver, "but I rally think it must change the direction of their thoughts."

Naturally

An old Edinburgh doctor of divinity, whose nose and chin were both very long, lost his teeth, and the nose and chin were thus brought very close together. A friend, looking him in the face one day, exclaimed, "I am afraid, Doctor, your nose and chin will fight before long; they approach each other very menacingly." "I am afraid of it myself," replied the venerable Scot, "for many words have passed between them already."

SEEING IS BELIEVING

Some time ago The Era carried the story of the new Lefroy-Roches Point Bell Telephone cable across the head of Lake Simcoe and the believe-it-or-not fact that Newmarket calls to Roches Point and Sutton will be routed via Barrie. This is a simplification of the long distance system in the Toronto district. The new submarine cable will be in operation in about a week's time. A. E. Revill, wire chief at Newmarket, told The Era. The new plan releases wire facilities on the Beaverton-Toronto toll line, and, telephonically speaking, brings closer together points on the east and west sides of Lake Simcoe.

Not Easy To Enlist In Royal Canadian Air Force

Written for the members of the C.W.N.A. by Hugh Templin of the Fergus News-Record.

It is not easy to join the Royal Canadian Air Force. That is not because men are not wanted; they are, and the need will become greater. It is not because one has to go far to find a recruiting centre; they are scattered all over Canada, and every province has at least one of them. Ontario has six—at North Bay, Windsor, London, Hamilton, Toronto and Ottawa. It is hard because the R.C.A.F. is particular about those it allows into its ranks. There is a high tradition to be maintained. For the air crews, at least, educational requirements are high. A pilot, for instance, must have junior matriculation, or better. Alert, physically fit young men are needed, of course. The age limit for pilots is 30 years; for air observers and wireless operators, two years older. According to the official literature, "applicants are required to be of good character, possessing intelligence and personality, and to be observant, self-reliant and keen on flying." And this means just what it says.

At the Recruiting Centre In order to find out just how a young man would join the R.C.A.F., I started at the beginning of the procedure. I went to the recruiting centre at 297 Bay St., Toronto, choosing it because it is the largest and the busiest in Ontario. The staff numbers 45. The recruiting centre is in an old office building. That was obvious, not only because of the layout but because the names of brokerage firms and the like are still to be found on some of the doors. In the hallway, a man scrutinized me carefully. He said nothing but his look was penetrating. I wondered if I was suspected of spying or something of the kind but my guide, Flying Officer Nicol, steered me safely past. Later, I learned that the man in the hall is an expert in character study. Had I fortified myself with a few drinks, or been otherwise unsuited to become a member of this great brotherhood, he would have found an excuse for steering me out the door.

Every applicant must have proof of age and education, at least two letters of recommendation and character, one of them from a recent or present employer, a marriage certificate, if applicable, birth certificates of children, if any, and discharge papers, if formerly in military service. I might have supplied them all, but had none with me. Most applicants go like that and are sent to the parliament buildings or wherever it is necessary to go to get the certificates. There is no charge for these, if applicant uses the forms given him at the recruiting centre. Pilots Are Most Popular Nearly every applicant, who has the qualifications, wants to be a pilot. That's easy enough to understand for there's a certain glamor about the job. What boy hasn't dreamed of flying his plane through the skies? Who hasn't heard what Canadian pilots did during the last war? And how many really know much about all the other jobs the air force offers? Many don't realize that conditions have changed greatly in the air since the last war. Then the pilot usually flew and fought a lone; now co-operation is essential. Many planes carry crews of three or four or more. They require air observers, wireless operators and air gunners. For every plane flying in the air, a large crew is needed on the ground. The R.C.A.F. lists some 65 trades in its ranks. Experienced men are much preferred, knowledge of the intricacies of all the trades in the air force. I looked down the long list and pretended I wanted to be a motor mechanic. (I really wanted to be a pilot, but I was a bit too old.) I couldn't imagine myself being a diesel oiler or a pigeon loftman or a masseur or an interpreter, but everybody knows how to drive a car, so I would be a motor mechanic. "Suppose you were out driving with your girl on the way to Niagara Falls and you were on a back road somewhere" (what that man knows!) "and your car stopped, what would you do first?" asked the sergeant major. I said that I would look in the gas tank, but it appeared I had plenty of gas. After covering several possibilities, it seemed I had trouble in the timing of the ignition, and I was soon beyond my depth. The warrant officer knew far more about it than I did. So I decided to be a pilot after all. That is typical of what every recruit goes through at first. I asked if some were not too nervous to answer. After all, a man joining the air force was taking an important and decisive step. Sgt. Major Day agreed, but he said that he soon put most recruits at ease and I believed him. If a few were still nervous, he sent them in to talk to the girls on the staff for a while. I didn't know whether to believe that or not. Anyway, I skipped that part of it. The attestation paper which the recruit must fill out contains the expected questions, such as name, age, place of birth, and so on. There is space enough to list the names of eight children, which should be ample. There are also some less obvious questions: Have you ever been convicted of an indictable offence? Are you in debt? (If so, state particulars—and there is plenty of space for the particulars.) Sports and hobbies? In addition, there is a question about flying experience in hours, solo, dual or passenger. It is said that some of the applicants, particularly from the United States, have plenty of hours to their credit, but that doesn't always guarantee that they will be good pilots in the fighting services. Definite and detailed instructions are given to each applicant when filling in the forms, yet 90 per cent are said to make one stupid mistake; they don't write in the name of their home town. They don't forget their street address, but most of them applying at that centre are from Toronto and don't think it necessary to say so. The Medical Examinations The medical examination is thorough, particular attention being paid to the eyes and hearing, as might be expected. After passing the usual eye tests, reading letters on the chart at a distance of 20 feet in a darkened tunnel, and so on, the doctor held up his finger two feet in front of my eyes and told me to watch it, as he slowly pushed it nearer my face. Gradually I grew more and more cross-eyed, which was quite proper. He asked me to try it with him. His eyes followed my finger to a certain point, then one suddenly snapped back. I was surprised, but it's fairly common. Those candidates haven't perfect muscular co-ordination, it seems, and can't judge distances accurately. They are the ones who might crash into another plane while landing. Finally, there was the color blindness test. I looked at colored circles in a book, one to a page. Each one looked as though it was a mosaic pattern and in each I could trace with little difficulty usually, though not so easily sometimes, a pair of figures—57, or 29, or a pattern. A man who was color blind would see an entirely different number, one which didn't show up until pointed out by Flying Officer Kinsey, who was giving me the tests. The system was devised by a Japanese professor who had made a study of color blindness. For those who are seriously color blind, there is a light test with red and green lights. It is said that five per cent of the recruits are color blind and so useless as members of an air crew. Last stage in the recruiting process was carried on in a basement room where a full set of my finger prints was taken. The fingers were stuck on a sheet of glass coated with printer's ink or something of the kind, then pressed one by one in the proper places on a card, then the four fingers of the left hand together and the four of the right hand. My guide enjoyed this immensely, but there seemed to be a certain grimace to it as well. The members of the R.C.A.F. carry copies of these and other identifications with them wherever they go.

After farewells to Flight-Lieut. Lumsden, O.C. at the recruiting centre, and Flight-Lieut. Muckell, I headed for the training depot, the next stage in the life of the recruit in the R.C.A.F.

"I sell Automobiles"

"When I started to sell cars twenty-five years ago there were few standards of values. Demonstrations, sales talks and explanations were long and complicated.

"Today the public, as well as the distributors and manufacturers of automobiles, recognize certain standards as a basis for comparing quality and performance. Power, construction, finish, speed and materials all have definitions that are recognized and accepted by the public as known values."

THE trend to which this merchant refers toward accepted, dependable standards, applies to other fields also. Take advertising for instance. Twenty-five years ago there was no approved measure for circulation values. Then the Audit Bureau of Circulations was organized in 1914, a national, cooperative association of publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies.

For the benefit of advertisers the Bureau makes an annual audit of the circulation records of all publisher members. Verified reports based on these audits show, for example, how many copies of a newspaper are printed, where they go and how distributed. These and other facts given in A. B. C. reports enable the adviser to compare circulation values and buy advertising on a business-like basis.

Newspapers are ideal for automobile advertising. People read the papers to keep up to date and all car owners and prospects are vitally interested in the latest automobile news. Dealers have found from experience that their newspaper advertising will reach the right people and get attention.

Added to that is the fact that their advertising investment in an A.B.C. newspaper is protected by the verified facts in A.B.C. reports. The result is effective advertising plus assurance that the advertisers get what they pay for.
